American Farmstead Cheeses

Slow Food U.S.A.

October 2003 is American Farmstead Cheese Month

In April, 2003, Slow Food USA inaugurated the American Raw Milk Farmstead Cheese Consortium. Through the Consortium, Slow Food intends to raise awareness of American raw milk farmstead cheese, to defend the right for these cheeses to be produced and enjoyed, and to be a resource for the cheese makers – all of whom face the challenges of maintaining their farms, tending to their animals, and finding the time to make cheese.

America's farmstead cheeses are born of the connection between the land, the animal, and the maker. Slow Food USA and the Dallas Convivium are pleased to welcome you to this special sampling of some of the country's best farmstead cheeses, most of them made with raw milk.

Cheese served as hors d'oeuvres donated by Mozzarella Company

Paula Lambert founded the Mozzarella Company in 1982. Her goal was to make cheeses like those she loved when she lived in Italy. She began with fresh mozzarella and today makes over 20 varieties of cheese. One thing has not changed. Each and every cheese is still made completely by hand from farm-fresh milk.
